SAN JOSE TRAIL NETWORK

San José is building a 100-mile network of trails throughout the city. During your stay, be sure to visit the following nearby trail systems. The Guadalupe River, Los Gatos Creek and Coyote Creek Trail systems are located just minutes from many downtown hotels. Each offers a unique experience. Whichever trail you choose, you'll find a wonderful place to relax and stay fit, and enrich your visit to San José / Silicon Valley.

GUADALUPE RIVER 9 MILES

Located in Downtown and north San José, the Guadalupe River Trail is the most accessible to downtown hotels. Follow the paved trail through manicured parks and gardens, enjoy spectacular views of the urban core and see public art installations. The trail is fully paved from downtown to the bay, where you'll find the charming community of Alviso. The river runs west of downtown, with access from all cross streets.

Downtown, near Park Avenue

Along San Jose Airport (SJC)

LOS GATOS CREEK 11 MILES

Find the main trail accessible from Willow Street, about 2.5 miles from downtown (access via Highway 280, Meridian Avenue Exit-south, right on Willow Street). The popular trail system extends from San José's Willow Glen neighborhood, through the City of Campbell, Town of Los Gatos and concludes at Lexington Reservoir. Find parks, natural riparian landscapes and easy access to shopping detours along the route.

West of Leigh Avenue

West of Meridian Avenue

COYOTE CREEK 13 MILES

Find the main trail accessible from Tully Road, about 5 miles from downtown (access via Highway 280, to Highway 101, Tully Rd Exit-west). Currently the City's longest continuous trail system. It passes through wooded creek-side landscapes, County park lands, and concludes in Morgan Hill. Along the way, you'll leave the urban environment and enjoy views of quiet rural landscapes.
